E. Levy and Company.

SUSSEX DROP FIRST INNINGS POINTS.

YORKSHIRE AGAIN BEATEN

London, To-day.

Lancashire, who jumped into the lead of the County Cricket Championship recently, definitely established their superiority by taking first innings points from Sussex, from whom they took the lead, in the mid-week cricket fixtures which concluded yesterday. Barring again, the northern county declared after scoring 321 for 8, Pearce, with 5 for 61 bearing the brunt of the Sussex attack. In their second knock Sussex scored 126 for 2 before stumps were drawn. (Continued on Page 4.)

BRITAIN'S FIGHT AGAINST STERLING SLUMP

GOLD FLIGHT FROM AMERICA

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received August 25, 9:57 a.m.)

New York, To-day.

There are signs and evidence that a virtual currency war broke out yesterday morning with France and Switzerland buying francs on a heavy scale, while the British Equalisation Fund intervened early in the forenoon and bought sterling to the value of £1,000,000.

The sharp rise in the London gold price corresponded with the slump in the value of sterling yesterday morning, which experts regard as a British move as a result of nationalisation of silver by the United States.

Other commentators suggest that depression of the pound sterling may have been designed to anticipate the mooted intention of President Roosevelt to further devalue the dollar. SOME WALL STREET AUTHORITIES BELIEVE THAT GREAT BRITAIN INTENDS TO REVALUE STERLING, CITING YESTERDAY'S LONDON GOLD PRICE OF 199 1/2 AND THE FURTHER WEAKNESS OF STERLING AGAINST THE FRENCH FRANC AS AN INDICATION. The export of gold from the United States is regarded as likely to increase unless the Government changes its silver policy. — United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

American bankers yesterday announced that they are shipping an additional 1,060,000 gold dollars to Europe. Wall Street forecast that gold exports will reach large proportions and it is wondered whether the Treasury will be forced to raise the gold price. United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Sharp Rise in Gold Price in London.

London, To-day.

The price of gold in London yesterday rose sharply by 7 1/2 to 139/8d, per fine ounce, and is now only ninepence below the record high price touched on February 5, following President Roosevelt's announcement of the dollar devaluation plan.

Yesterday's price included a premium calculated at 2/8d. over the dollar and 7d. over the French franc. The rise in price stimulated interest in South African mining shares on the stock market and the prices strengthened. — British Wireless Service. (Continued on Page 9.)

MANCHUKUO MISSION

PRESS REPORT REFUTED AS INCORRECT

MISINTERPRETATION OF INTERVIEW.

NOT CONCERNED WITH POLITICS.

London, To-day.

In a letter to the "Morning Post," in reference to an article therein quoting an interview in which he is reported by a London representative of a Japanese paper as having expressed certain opinions about the political relations of Great Britain with Japan and Manchukuo, Lord Barnby, leader of the British trade mission to Manchukuo states that he feels that some misunderstanding must have arisen in connection with the matter.

The mission which I have the honour to lead to Japan and Manchukuo is not concerned in any way with political questions, which are entirely outside its scope," he said. "Neither am I personally qualified to express an opinion on political questions affecting the relations of Great Britain with other countries. "I feel it right to make this quite clear in order to avoid any misinterpretation of the objects of the mission which is proceeding to the Far East," he continued. "We are going there in an entirely unofficial capacity for business purposes, also in the hope of making friendly contact between the business communities of the respective countries." — Reuter. (Continued From Previous Column) and water, do apply just a little of that jelly which merges into the skin surface and lubricates any tendency to harshness.

Or some of that cream comprising honey and almonds, which is really a hand complexion balm and beautifies the most unlovely hand surface if you persevere with it.

Hands are so easily lined and wrinkled from constant contact with hard water, and for those hands which through circumstance or neglect have achieved wrinkles treat them as you treat your throat and brow—they are just as deserving with a wrinkle-erasing cream.

HOW TO PRODUCE
LOVELY ARMSExercise And Massaging
Help A Great Deal.

CARE OF YOUR HANDS

Your arms are exposed and they must be as near to perfection as you can make them.

Your loveliest gown will be disappointing if, you reveal arms of a different hue from that of your face and throat—or a rougher surface.

During the summer months particularly, treat them each morning to a brisk patting with your own favoured skin toning lotion, after washing, and keep them fresh throughout the day.

If they are too thin, indented between shoulder and elbow, treat them to a nightly application with a heavy massage cream which will nourish and leave it on overnight.

One there is antiseptic as well, and most attractively packed in modernistic square "containers."

Massaging

Be sure that your massage for this purpose is of the light-fingered variety. Here is a grace-giving exercise:

Exercises

Hold one arm before you, elbow bent, and wrist on a level with your chin, and, moving the arm from the elbow, describe lazy circles with your hand, keeping arm and hand relaxed throughout.

Then repeat with the other arm. If your arms are over-plump, and this plumpness usually takes hold of the upper arm—persevere with brisk arm-flinging night and morning, keeping the arms tensed.

Use a loofah bath glove for massage, and with the aid of a reducing lotion treat them to friction "rubs" whenever opportunity permits.

For elbows which have become discoloured, take the pulp from half a lemon or grapefruit, place it in the palm of one hand, and "cup" the elbow of the other in the palm.

If you want to disguise too prominent elbows, a nourishing cream is indispensable, but it should always be applied when the arms are straight, and not bent at the elbow.

Your Hands

And your hands: after immersion in any kind of soap or soda (Continued at foot of preceding Column.)

The adjustment of the new small capes, or bolero and cape combined, tends to give a distinctive and broader line to shoulders. This movement is helpful in giving an impression of slimmness below. Some of the fuller and frilly summery skirts have the draped fichu bodices and sash-waists, which take away any suggestion of a superfluity of fabric. Much attention is paid to the neck drapery to-day, and artistry is put into the arrangement.

This is where experience tells and results in prices for model gowns which often bewilder the uninitiated.

Artistic Ideas.

Any representative collection of models brings together a great variety of artistic ideas, and it is possible to derive full advantage of the idea in the mind of the designer if careful choice is made. The coat-frock, with its attractive new and high smooth neckline is a becoming choice for many women. The three-quarter sleeve that opens wide towards the wrist is pleasing, and balances a slightly flared hemline. Many coat-frocks show a contrasting fabric, which can be introduced down the front of the corsage and in a narrow skirt pleat.

If slit up, a waistband is sometimes placed across the front. Waists are placed fairly normally. The ingenious artist can always arrange the position to suit the wearer.

Waistlines.

Sometimes the coat-frock of perfect cut is best left plain and moulded to the figure. Naturally such a choice must be guided by the style of figure it has to clothe. Often a slight break at the waistline is helpful, especially if a capelet or tiny bolero cape is worn, for at last the summer cape has an important place in fashion. Some little capes are attached to sashes and fasten at the back, with the ends falling on to the skirt. In this case the effect across the chest is of a Puritan collar. Others have a hooded back and fasten into a wide belt in front.

Contrasting Sleeves.

A somewhat difficult mode is the introduction of contrasting sleeves. In the case of black or navy, white sleeves are popular, or white and the darker tone mixed. The effect is pleasing and brightens a dark dress. If too many colours are used this mode is apt to become fantastic. Here, again, artistry comes in; with the slim and skilful shaping of a well-cut sleeve all sorts of novel treatments can attain success.

With the modern desire for simplicity, the quieter contrasts in colour prevail. Spotted fabrics are used sparingly—for gloves, gauntlets, and necktie with dark suits. Tartan plaid is still a favourite in the taffeta line, but only as a contrast with dark plain wool or silk.

FLOWER ENSEMBLE
FOR THE BRIDE

Angel-Skin Lace

Flowers are always an important part of the bridal ensemble. This season sees them simpler in arrangement, a few big blooms in formal sheaf fashion having replaced the trials and shower bouquets of last year.

This is a reflection of the long, graceful lines of fashionable bridal gowns, which mostly dispense with frills and flounces, relying on the beauty of the fabric for effect.

Lace, however, must not be forgotten, and the bridal gown of heavy angel-skin lace still ranks high among smart bridal attire.

TULLE FOR BRIDE'S VEIL

Most brides like to wear antique lace veils, if they are lucky enough to possess such a treasure, or are able to borrow it. If not, there is always the popular cut, tulle to complete the bridal outfit, and this season veils are being worn much shorter. Some of the smartest brides have worn tulle veils reaching only to the waist and finished with a narrow kiting of the tulle all round.

A GIRL'S SUMMER TOWN
WARDROBE

When picking a starter for a summer town wardrobe, a girl will do well to get a dark jacket ensemble consisting of short-sleeved dress and matching long-sleeved jacket. And, this year, she can't go wrong on one of the new sheers or a net or a chiffon. The jacket outfit is a shining example of what the "lady who stays in town" should wear.

BRIDGE NOTES

Better Than Good
Defence

by Ely Culbertson.

In the play of the cards at Contract Bridge a major object of every player, in addition to his normal procedure of setting up tricks and cashing high-card-tricks, is to try to anticipate what the opposition will do and then attempt to throw a monkey-wrench into the machinery.

The other side in turn has to search for means of counteracting the sabotage of the enemy and thereby making the maximum on the hand.

To-day's hand shows how A-1 defence will avail little against sterling Dummy play. Incidentally, the Declarer was Miss Bebe Daniels, who needs no introduction.

Pass Pass Pass

1—Not a very good Double but, on the other hand, not a bad one. North is prepared for a spade response by his partner.

2—A Pre-emptive bid over an opposing Takeout Double, made purely and simply in an attempt to shut out the opponents.

3—Naturally South will not be shut out. North's Takeout Double has worked out very well, as, had North merely over-called with two diamonds and East still bid four hearts, South would be taking quite a risk in bidding four spades.

East and West decided that they had some defence and did not attempt a sacrifice bid of five hearts.

West's Opening lead was the heart King, which was followed by a very brilliant shift to the club King. This play was made in an effort to set up the setting tricks and also to remove one of Dummy's cards of re-entry. Miss Daniels, however, quite properly ducked the first round of clubs. West continued with a club, and this trick was won with Dummy's Ace.

A low spade was led from Dummy to Declarer's Ace, and the Ten of diamonds was led. West played the Queen and this card was permitted to hold the trick. Due to the previous hold-up on the first round of clubs West now did not have another club to lead and could make no play to defeat the contract.

West actually did lead another heart, which the Declarer ruffed in her own hand, and now she did not even have to take the diamond finesse but could afford to play for the break since the Dummy contained a sure spade re-entry.

The low diamond was led to the Ace and a low diamond returned and trumped, setting up the suit. The high Knave of spades was played, and a low spade led to Dummy's King, which removed all the outstanding trumps, and subsequently the established diamonds afforded the necessary club discards.

Cinema Notes

"MURDER AT THE VANITIES"
—KING'S THEATRE

With 11 of Earl Carroll's beauties, Carl Brisson, noted continental and English screen and stage star, Victor McLaglen, Jack Oakie, Kitty Carlisle, and Duke Ellington and his famous orchestra are featured in the cast of "Murder at the Vanities," a Paramount production heralded with a fanfare of trumpets.

The story centres round a jealous girl (Gertrude Michael), who vows revenge against Brisson, who was once a famous opera star, is wanted in Vienna for murder. No one knows who Brisson's mother is save Miss Michael, and she further knows that Brisson's mother, who was once a famous opera star, is wanted in Vienna for murder.

To prevent further trouble from her, a hired detective is detailed to watch her. Then, while the orchestra is gaily playing and the girls are dancing and singing to a throng of first-nighters, the sinister hand of a murderer gets busy in the back stage.

The crimes are committed. McLaglen, the detective, is called, and the manner in which he humorously solves the unique situation while the musical show goes on is both thrilling and entertaining.

"THE MAD GENIUS"
—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

"The Mad Genius," a melodrama featuring John Barrymore, Marian Marsh and Donald Cook, is Warner Brothers' current release now showing at the Alhambra Theatre.

Barrymore, in the leading role, plays the part of Tsarakov, the mad genius of the Russian Imperial Ballet, one of the most weird roles that Barrymore has ever been called upon to act.

Tsarakov, embittered because of a physical blemish which prevents him personally becoming the embodiment of the dance—kiddnap a homeless lad, pours into him all the fanatical ambition thwarted in himself, dominates his body and soul, and finally banishes the dancing girl whom Fedor loves.

Tsarakov's ruthless selfishness finally alienates the lad who has become the world's greatest dancer. Then follows scenes of tremendous power in which figure a drug-razed ballet master, and a strangely glittering concourse of persons and situations, which lead the melodrama to its inevitable end.

Others featured in "The Mad Genius" are Carmel Myers, Charles Butterworth, Louis Alberni, Andre Luget, Boris Karloff, Frankie Darro and Mae Madison.

"REACHING FOR THE MOON"
—ORIENTAL THEATRE

"Reaching for the Moon," a dashing comedy-drama, featuring an array of well-known stars in the cast including Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Edward Everett Horton, Jack Mulhall, Claud Allister, Emmett Corrigan, Walter Walker, June MacCloy, Luana Walters, Helen Jerome Eddy, and Phil Tead.

Douglas Fairbanks Sr., in the leading role plays the part of the young man, who tosses away millions of dollars in a gamble for the love of a girl (Bebe Daniels). Smart dialogue and rapid action combine to make the film a highly entertaining picture.

"KING KONG"—LEE THEATRE

The possibility of an ape yearning for the companionship of a woman whose fragile, golden beauty has stirred it to a never-before experienced emotion of protective tenderness, is given a modern interpretation in RKO-Radio Pictures' "King Kong" now at the Lee Theatre.

Fay Wray plays the girl whose champion, greatly to her dismay and terror, is a gigantic anthropoid, fifty feet tall and perhaps seven million years old.

"CARL HAGENBECK CIRCUS"

The greatest circus in the world provides 100 attractions, 1000 wild animals and the largest aggregation of circus artists ever assembled in a film.

"Murder at the Vanities," showing at the King's Theatre tomorrow, is on an exceptionally lavish scale. It is probably one of the cleverest screened pictures of the year.

ANCIENT FOSSILS
FOUNDPrehistoric Graveyard
In South Africa

Cape Town.

A graveyard of prehistoric animals has been discovered near the mouth of Milnerton Vlei. Valuable relics have been presented to the South African Museum and have been identified by experts there as fossils of great antiquity.

Mr. L. Laurensen, the discoverer, is a well-known amateur excavator. At Milnerton, he said, he discovered a bunch of about 30 teeth. They were the teeth of a mammoth of the type scientifically known as archidiskodon. The Cape Peninsula was supposed by many scientists to have been submerged at the geological period presented by these teeth, but the discovery proves that the Cape was dry land like the Transvaal at that time.—Reuter.

"ALL OF ME"—QUEEN'S

"All Of Me," a conflicting drama between a man and a woman, is forcefully presented at the Queen's Theatre.

The story centres round a mining engineer and a rich society girl, two roles excellently played by Fredric March and Miriam Hopkins.

Miriam Hopkins is afraid that marriage will spoil romance and true love. In a speak-easy they meet a pair of underworld lovers—Helen Mack and George Raft, whose honesty and courage so impress Miss Hopkins that she helps Mr. Raft to escape from an island prison and Miss Mack from an institution. Unfortunately the Prison officials come to take them back, and the lovers jump from the window, rather than be separated. Their suicide teaches the lovely heroine the lesson she needs to bring about her marriage to the man who loves her.

"I AM A FUGITIVE"—
STAR THEATRE

A grim and realistic story of life as a prisoner in a chain-gang is portrayed in the Warner Brothers' production, "I Am A Fugitive."

The story, which was adapted from the autobiography of Robert E. Burns, unfolds the tortures and cruelties which he suffered as a prisoner in the chain-gang and of his eventual escape and flight from armed guards and bloodhounds. Romance is also interwoven in the story which culminates in his ultimate betrayal by the woman he loves.

Paul Muni, the famous stage and screen star, heads the cast which includes Glenda Farrell, Helen Vinson, Preston Foster, Edward J. McNamara and Sheila Terry.

"ORIENT EXPRESS"—
MAJESTIC THEATRE

Like "Shanghai Express," or "Rome Express," the entire action of "Orient Express" takes place on board a train, running from Ostend to Istanbul.

Fox's current release, though not as interesting or as well acted as "Rome Express," is filled with thrills, action, and romance.

IMMORAL FILMS
CONDEMNEDAppeal To Catholics
By Pope

Vatican City.

A call to Catholics throughout the world to work for the suppression of immoral films has been sounded by the Pope.

The cinematograph exerts an influence even greater than that of the press, the Pope claims, and warnings are reaching him from every side of the grave moral and religious dangers created by immoral films, especially in the minds of the young.

His Holiness's views are explained in a letter written by Cardinal Jacelli to Canon Brohee, President of the International Catholic Cinematograph Office.

"The efforts of Governments, teachers and parents to bring up the coming generation decently," the Cardinal writes, "run the risk of being ruined beyond repair by these frequent representations of artificial and immoral life."

"Dellacy of conscience and instinctive reaction against evil, which are the sign and measure of virtue, are declining, and men's minds are sliding towards a conception of life absolutely incompatible with Christianity."

Catholics of all countries should make it a duty of conscience to exert themselves in remedying this state of affairs, the Cardinal declares, speaking on behalf of the Pope.

Catholic organisations, and especially the Catholic Action, are urged to make more use of the cinematograph as an instrument of healthy education.

More attention should be paid to the cinematograph in Catholic meetings and programmes of study. Catholic newspapers should publish film columns, praising good films and blaming bad ones, so as to guide their readers in their choice of an evening's entertainment.

A "firm resistance" should be opposed to bad films. Finally the Pope expresses approval of the policy of the Catholic Cinematograph Office of fitting out halls with all the latest technical contrivances, in which approved films only are shown. Provided that undue financial risks are not incurred, he says, the policy should be extended.—Reuter.

New York City detectives felt that they were face to face with an old friend when the found Elmer Dillon—better known as Angel Face—in the line-up at Police Headquarters.

It represented Elmer's thirty-eighth arrest since 1908.

Two detectives found Angel Face jostling an intoxicated gentleman. The prisoner admitted to being forty years old. There is a legend that he used to sing in the choir when he was a boy. Even if he did not, his blond hair, blue eyes and peaches and cream complexion gave him a nickname that has stuck in police annals.

He was held on charges of disorderly conduct.

Elmer did not seem to mind. "If anything, he appeared to accept it with a cheery resignation," Reuter.

"FIGHT TO LAST DITCH"

Cape Town.

Lively and amusing and occasionally dramatic incidents marked an all-night sitting of Parliament, forced by the Labour Party on the 88-clause Workmen's Compensation Bill in pursuance of their threat at the second reading to fight the measure "to the last ditch."

The struggle started at 12.30 in the afternoon and the Labourites had hardly got into their strides when the House adjourned for lunch. On resuming they settled down with grim intensity either to wreck the Bill or to lick it into a shape more acceptable to their views. The Government accepted the challenge and insisted on putting the Bill through committee.

At half-past seven the next morning the Labour Party exhausted its forces and the Bill was then reported to Mr. Speaker with amendments after 17½ hours in committee.

Mr. W. Madeley, former Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, and M.P. for Benoni, who bitterly opposed the Bill, was the central figure in a breezy scene with the chairman. He accused the chairman of acting "in a most arbitrary manner." "I ask the hon. member to leave the chamber," answered the chairman. "Very well, then, I will," said Mr. Madeley, who thereupon left the House.—Reuter.

HUGHES AND LEE PAIR BRILLIANTLY IN DAVIS CUP DUEL

McLEAN'S WIN

COSTLY ERROR BY CAMPBELL MAIN FEATURE

BAD-PUTTING LOSES MATCH.

SCOTS AMATEUR TOURNEY

London, July 30.

J. McLean, the 24-year-old British Walker Cup player, won the Scottish amateur championship for the third successive year. In the 36-hole final at Western Gailes he beat W. Campbell, a former international, by 3 and 1.

McLean played magnificently in a gale of wind during the first round, and was three up, having a score of 71 against 74.

Campbell missed a great chance of squaring the match in the afternoon. At the fifteenth hole, where he was only one down, he failed with a putt of two feet for a win. He had not another chance, and was beaten at the seventeenth hole.

McLean started strongly, and was two up with five played. Campbell won the sixth, where McLean, after a poor drive and a weak second shot, took six. The last three holes outward were halved, although McLean might have won the eighth, where he hit the pin with a chip shot and the ball just failed to drop.

McLean pitched dead from a bunker to win the thirteenth in three, and he became three up at the fifteenth. The last three holes of the round were halved.

Pitched Dead From Bunker

McLean was bunkered off his second shot and lost the second hole in the afternoon, but he was three up again at the next. Campbell, however, won the fourth, where the champion took three to reach the green, and also the sixth. But McLean was soon three up again. He holed an eight yards putt for a two at the seventh, and at the eighth Campbell took three putts.

The ninth was nearly at tragedy for McLean. He played his approach shot short, and was stymied, but screwed his ball round to gain a half. His second shot to the tenth was bunkered, and Campbell won the hole. The latter reduced his arrears to one at the thirteenth, and then he let slip a great opportunity by missing his two-foot putt at the fifteenth.

Campbell lost the next two holes and the match. At the sixteenth he was in the burn from a sliced iron shot, and at the seventeenth he took three putts.

AGA KHAN'S YEAR OF SUCCESS

Frank Butters Trains Winners Of $45,329.

FIRST & SECOND IN NATIONAL BREEDERS' PRODUCE STAKES

(By HOTSPUR)

London, July 25.

The amazing success of a Newmarket racing stable makes all other happenings on the Turf this season pale by comparison. Frank Butters is the trainer and the Aga Khan is his chief winning owner.

On Saturday at Sandown Park they had the first and second for the valuable (National Breeders' Produce Stakes, though by no means in the order of their positions in the betting. Bahram won the stake of $5,559, starting at 60 to 1. Theft, at 5 to 2, was second.

Horses in the care of Frank Butters have so far this season won $45,329 in stakes. Of that total $28,776 has gone to the Aga Khan. And yet they just missed winning the Eclipse Stakes last week, and had no luck in the Derby or the Two Thousand Guineas! The season has still nearly half its course to run, and there are more big prizes to be won.

The Aga Khan has many wonderful two-year-olds. They include Hairan, which cost 6,400 guineas as a yearling, Bahram, Alykhan, Shahall, Theft, Vermell II, Hilla, and Muntaz Begum. There are more to come out. Outstanding two-year-olds virtually guarantee a good time in the following year, when they are three-year-olds.

The stable have won the Oaks and the Gold Cup at Ascot. They now have an eye on the St. Leger.

DAVIS CUP THIRD ROUND

The winners of these encounters will enter the 1935 Competition proper.

Sweden and Holland are all square on the first day's play, having won one singles match each.

Germany have established a lead of two matches to nil over Denmark, winning the two singles encounters on the first day.

ATHLETIC WIN FOR ENGLAND OVER FRANCE

SWEENEY'S SPRINT DOUBLE IN PARIS

FINLAY'S HURDLES SUCCESS

Paris, July 30.

England beat France by 66½ points to 53½ in the athletic contest to-day at the Colombes Stadium. England made almost a clean sweep of the track events, winning the 100, 200, 400, 800, 1,500 metres, the 110 metres hurdles, and the 1,600 metres medley relay. France won the 3,000 metres, steeplechase, the 5,000 metres, the long jump, discus, pole vault, and the weight.

Some of the spectators were annoyed during the 1,500 metres race, which was won by J. F. Cornes. When rounding the bend on the third lap, the English pair, Cornes and Reeve, tried to break away. Reeve appeared to be elbowed by one of the Frenchmen and was forced to run on the edge of the turf. The crowd, not seeing the elbowing, roared for Reeve's disqualification and shouted down the announcer.

S. W. Sweeney scored a double by winning the two sprints, both by inches. G. L. Rampling took the 400 metres after a very hard fight with Skavinsky, who took the lead at half-way and looked like winning. Rampling, however, passed him in the straight and held off F. A. R. Hunter. Skavinsky cracked and finished last.

ENGLISHMEN IN DEAD-HEAT. The 800 metres resulted in a dead-heat between J. A. Cooper and J. V. Powell, with A. J. Collyer third. All three finished strongly and were cheered by the crowd. Henry (France) set the pace for first 500 metres but fell back. Cooper and Powell broke right away at 600 metres to finish together quite fresh.

Finlay made a splendid burst of speed to win the 110 metres hurdles from Bernard (France). Hurdling beautifully, he took an early lead. He lost ground slightly towards the finish, when Bernard made his effort, but the Englishman held him off to win by about a foot.

Rerolle won the 3,000 metres steeplechase, which consisted of five times round the Colombes track, over a wall, two hurdles, a hedge, and a water jump. Rerolle, Scarsbrook, and Bailey were close together for the first four laps. Scarsbrook made a magnificent effort to catch Rerolle in the last (Continued on Page 5)

SOVIET ATHLETES WIN IN PARIS

Majority Of Events Fall To U. S. S. R. Workers

Paris, Aug. 13.

The Soviet Athletic team carried off practically all the prizes at the gala athletic meeting of international workers held yesterday for the first time in France, with the participation of workmen's athletic teams from the Saar, Germany, U.S.S.R., Sweden, Norway, Great Britain, the United States, Switzerland, Spain, Czechoslovakia and France.

The Soviet football team defeated the Swedish eleven by a score of 11-0. Fifteen thousand spectators packed the stands decorated with various national colours among which was a large number of Soviet flags. The athletes made their appearance at the stadium as the band struck the Internationale, and were greeted with enthusiasm by the spectators. Particularly long ovations fell to the lot of the Soviet team. —Havas.

Meet a future tennis champion, Marvin Kantowitz, of New York, displayed brilliant form to win the Eastern boys' title at Forest Hills, L.I. He defeated Robert Row, boy's national indoor champion, in final.

ANGLO-AMERICAN "RUGGER"

Bright Prospects Loom Ahead

Mr. J. T. McGovern, whose witty speech was a feature of the recent Pilgrims' dinner, has now resumed his N.R.A. work after a short holiday in England. His fortnight's holiday has, he says, been fruitful in other spheres.

International—or rather British-American—sports has been his concern since the war. He was largely instrumental in bringing about a regular interchange of visits between British and American University athletic teams.

Now he hopes to do the same thing for Rugby football. Since the Cambridge XV's visit to America, "Rugger" is becoming increasingly popular in the Eastern universities.

It is understood that Mr. "Terry" McGovern had had helpful interviews with leading figures in the English Rugby world and that concrete arrangements may shortly be made.

AMERICAN TITLISTS NEARLY SURPRISED

LOTT'S SENSATIONAL COLLAPSE

STOEFFEN SAVES MATCH

(By A WALLIS MYERS)

London, July 31.

THE unexpected nearly happened at Wimbledon yesterday. G. M. Lott and L. R. Stoefer, the doubles champions of Wimbledon and America, came perilously near to a five-set match with G. P. Hughes and H. G. N. Lee, the British defending pair.

In the end America won 7-5, 6-0, 4-6, 9-7, and Great Britain's lead in the Davis Cup Challenge Round was reduced to two matches to one.

I imagine that R. N. Williams, the American captain, was much relieved to see a good volley by Hughes pass just over the baseline to give his country victory.

It was exciting, but very uneven tennis. Seventeen games went against the service (ten on the British side and seven on the American), but it cannot be said in the main that these aberrations were due to the damaging service, replies of the receivers. The service returns that scored outright by speed and accuracy could almost be counted on the fingers of two hands.

It is true that the Americans, in the middle of the match, piled up ten games. During this phase they looked to be complete masters of the court, sailing serenely to a three-set victory. But long leads in doubles matches are often delusive; they may act as opiates on reigning monarchs.

Roused, as it were, from a sweet reverie by the latent ardour of their opponents, who had never lacked courage, the Americans, with a 2-0 love lead in the third set and two sets in the bank, found themselves fumbling for effective replies to a forceful British reprisal.

A contest that looked virtually over gradually assumed the complexion of a stern and level struggle.

The British pair were quick to seize their psychological advantage. Thunders of applause greeted their capture of the third set. The scratch crew were stealing a march on the university boat; in their consternation the Americans caught several crabs.

Scramble For Points

The interval of ten minutes gave time for reflection, but it did not restore the ascendancy of Lott and Stoefer. On the contrary, the fourth set, after the Americans had led 3-1 and the British had drawn level by seizing Stoefer's service, provided a veritable scramble for winning points.

With Lott so friendly to the net that he presented it with nearly every ground shot, and increased his legacy with fozzled volleys, the Americans' almost completely hid their identity as champions, and were only saved from disaster by the individual coolness of Stoefer.

It was the tall Californian, alternately deadly and wild: overhead, who came to the rescue of his side in the crisis of the fourth set. Lott had lost both the lead and his service in the thirteenth game.

He finished with a double fault to emphasise his delinquencies.

Leading 7-6, Britain needed only three points to reach a critical fifth set; possibly with morale in their favour. Lee had won his previous service game by heroic play, serving an ace to clinch it. This time he found Stoefer wonderfully cool and efficient. Hughes smashed out of court, and Lee double-faulted; these two errors helped the Americans to square.

Stoefer To The Rescue

It was Stoefer, unaided, and not only with his service, who held the fifteenth game. His low cross fade-away volleys, hitherto absent, were masterpieces; and it was Stoefer again who played brilliantly in the next and final game, when the service of Hughes was broken through.

During this strangely variable struggle, when all four were only rarely playing well at the same time, Hughes lost his ser-

WONDERFUL RECOVERY BY MISS WETHERED

EASTMAN TO LEAD KOWLOON F.C.

BLISS DEPUTY SKIPPER FOR 1934-5 SEASON

A comparatively successful football season was reviewed by Mr. R. Hall, Chairman, at the annual meeting of the Kowloon Football Club at the Club Pavilion last night.

Those present were, Mr. R. Hall, Chairman, Major Manners, and Messrs. Dallow, Mackie, McKelvie, Stokes, Hast, White, Forsyth, C. M. Hall, Eastman, Bliss, Gurevitch, Everest, London, Luck, Ferguson, Duffield and Downman.

Chairman's Speech

Addressing the meeting Mr. Hall said:—
"In the absence of our President, Mr. T. A. Mitchell, I am once more deputised to conduct an annual general meeting. As most of you are aware Mr. Mitchell returned Home to undergo an operation of a very serious nature. I am happy to state that the operation has been successful and that he is due to leave Home for these parts at the end of the present month.

"In a recent letter he announced his fond desire to be amongst us once more, and to participate in the joys and pains of the forthcoming Football Season.

"The Accounts are presented in the usual form and are of sufficient detail to give a concise idea of the Club's status respecting finance. The balance is not a big one, but you will note a vast improvement on the past season and I venture to contend, one very creditable in view of the prevailing stress of times.

Pavilion Repairs

"The attention of members has recently been drawn by Circular Letter to the poor condition of the Club House and its amenities.

"Certain suggestions were made respecting repairs and remedies for adjustment necessary to place the Pavilion in good order.

"A request was made for voluntary contributions to effect the aforesaid. While certain members responded generously, returns in the main were not gratifying. The proposed project has therefore to stand over until the necessary funds (some $4,000) are available.

"A further appeal for funds will be made in the near future, when better results are hoped for, to enable at least a section of the work to proceed.

Club Membership

"The Membership of the Club stands at 224. During the year 46 new members were elected while 35 resigned, 4 died, and 16 have been struck off, or due to departure from the Colony.

"Your Committee record with deep regret the deaths of Messrs. J. Johnstone, A. M. Simpson, R.F. Mitchell and L. Hutchings.

The Working Account

"The Bar working account shows satisfactory results and much credit is due to our Bar Convenor, Mr. Dallow. This gentleman has served the Club in the dual capacity of Treasurer and Bar Convenor for the past two years. His decision to retire in an official capacity creates a distinct loss not easily repaid by the Club.

Last Season's Football

While there was nothing of outstanding merit in the performance of either the first or second teams there were, nevertheless, many enjoyable games witnessed throughout the season, especially toward the close when members of the second team, who finished their fixtures early, were played in to the first team to make good the vacancies caused by players leaving the Colony and injuries, etc.

The promoted players gave exhibitions showing great promise and would remind the players that we older members of the Club look to the younger element to bring their friends along, it is in a very large measure their activities in this direction upon which the Club depends for its success.

Tennis Activities

"The popularity of tennis is demonstrated by the packed courts, a situation which has been well maintained throughout the year, and has proved its usefulness in keeping the Club alive during the closed football season.

"A number of enjoyable, well contested tournaments have been played during the season. The success of this line of sport is largely due to Mr. Whiteman, the Tennis Convenor, who played his part with great zeal both in the capacity of an official and player.

"The additional courts laid on the football field have proved a further attraction, and are greatly in demand.

Grounds In Good Order

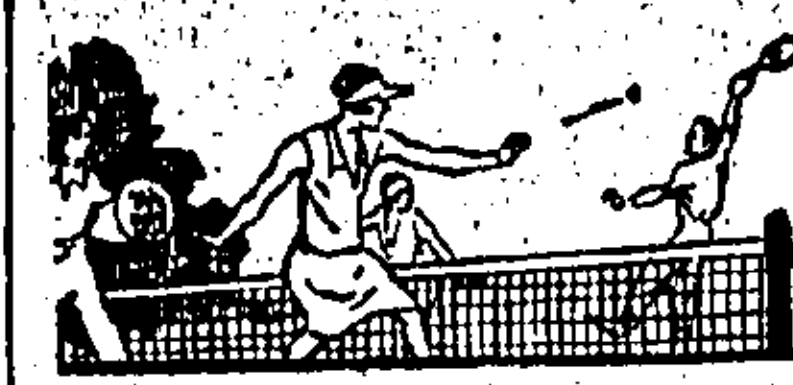

"The Club's playing grounds are in good condition and, are well prepared for the forthcoming season. The sheet iron fencing and rearrangement introduced last season fully justified itself, and it is hoped to extend this useful fencing at an early date.

Last season we shared the grounds, and pavilion with the Royal Navy Football teams. On many occasions, also, the grounds were utilised by football teams raised from the crews of passenger ships while in port, baseball teams from the U. S. men of war, and school-boy teams.

"The inaugural game for the School Boys' Challenge Shield competition, promoted by this Club, proved a great success, and was thoroughly enjoyed, both by the competitors and spectators who witnessed the game.

"The selection of New Year's day for this match was, however, not well chosen, both in respect to boys available during the holiday season, and the disinclination of people to leave their homes on a New Year's morning. It is proposed to select a more opportune date for the play-off this year. The proceeds of this match are devoted to charity and should in future provide an excellent exhibition of our local hopefuls in the football field.

SOVIET'S MODIFIED VIEWS ON SPORT

Will Now Meet "Products Of Capitalism."

EUROPEAN TEAMS INVITED

Moscow, Aug. 9.

The Soviet has decided to take a new step and teams from European countries are to be invited to compete with Soviet athletes.

Heretofore, the Soviet has ignored all "bourgeois" teams, as they were called, as being "products of capitalism," and only working class teams were invited. Now, however, Soviet sport is advanced enough to want to test against more skilled material.

The Czechoslovakian champion Soccer team will be the first to be invited. Sports leaders also are considering the question of hiring British coaches, and offers from several are said to have been received already.

The authorities state:—"We are not interested in making records. Our aim is to attract as many people as possible into sport and to improve its quality. Therefore, we will probably invite some foreign experts to come here and help us."—Reuter.

LAST 5 HOLES AGAINST ENID WILSON IN 16

TURNING POINT IN EPIC ENCOUNTER

(By GEORGE GREENWOOD)

London, July 30.

IN an amazing finish Miss Wethered beat Miss Wilson by 2 holes in an eighteen-holes exhibition match at Bramley, near Guildford, on Saturday. A large crowd assembled to see the two foremost women players, who, strangely enough, had never before met in single combat.

The thrills were packed into the last five holes, which Miss Wethered accomplished in the astonishing score of 16—one over 3's. There were a couple of 2's and four "birdies" in this wonderful stretch, the figures for which were: 4, 2, 4, 2, 4.

Miss Wilson had a cruel experience; she did the five holes in the bogey figures and lost four of them. Miss Wethered was two down at the fourteenth, having played far below the form of which we know she is capable. The chief source of trouble was the putting, which gave her many unhappy moments.

150 metres. He sprinted faster than the Frenchman, but could only reduce Rerolle's lead by a few yards to finish second, with Bailey third.

FINE RELAY RUNNING

England's relay team, Gutteridge, Rangleley, Murdoch, and Stoneley, beat the Frenchmen by about five yards. Gutteridge gained a couple of yards' lead over Morel on the first leg of 800 metres, and Rangleley did well to keep the advantage against Paul in the next 200 metres. Murdoch ran finely in the second 200 metres, and increased the lead to about ten yards on handling over to Stoneley. Joye went after Stoneley at a terrific pace in the last 400 metres, and made up several yards. He could not, however, maintain the pace.

Rochard (France) won the 5,000 metres from Burns. They passed each other several times, with Melet and Allen occasionally creeping up and increasing the pace. After 4,250 metres, Rochard ran ahead of Burns. The latter lengthened his stride, but could not reduce the Frenchman's lead of 65 metres.

A little frightened at the pace of the greens, Miss Wethered developed a jab, the putter being stopped at impact with a pronounced jerk. A more flagrant case of "stabbing" has never been met, and there was little wonder that many holeable putts of two-and-a-half to four feet were missed.

For thirteen holes it was the worst exhibition of putting that Miss Wethered has ever given.

Poor Wooden Shots

In addition, she hit one or two loose wooden club shots. For example, at the eighth Miss Wethered pulled a drive under a wooden seat, and, in accordance with Rule eleven of the new code dealing with immovable obstructions, she dropped without penalty. Miss Wethered was then left with a full brassie shot which was sliced into a wood. This little adventure produced a 6, one of three in seven consecutive holes.

Out in 42, Miss Wethered was nine over 4's with thirteen holes played. If Miss Wilson had taken her chances, which she seemed incapable of doing, the match would have been virtually over at this stage.

Instead, she was only two up a lead that was swept away in the deluge at the last five holes.

Suddenly finding her putting touch—the distracted caddy must have offered a few words of advice—Miss Wethered holed a putt of six yards at the long fourteenth for a 4 to win the hole. Holing another at the next, the match was square.

Miss Wethered should also have won the sixteenth, where she drove to the edge of the green, a distance of 278 yards, but hit a weak run up.

This was a half in 4, but at the seventeenth, a hole of 210 yards, played from an elevated teeing ground, she hit a glorious No. 3 iron shot within three yards of the pin, and holed the putt for her third 2 of the match.

Miss Wilson Slices Drive

Dormy one, Miss Wethered also won the last, where Miss Wilson, in an attempt to get extra length with her drive, sliced against a hedge.

Generally, Miss Wethered held the advantage from the tee. The difference was not much, but just enough to compel Miss Wilson to take a more powerful iron than her opponent for the second shot.

There was a good illustration of the difference in length at the twelfth, a hole of 510 yards played down wind, and with sloping ground for the second shot. Miss Wilson took a spoon and Miss Wethered a No. 3 iron, and both were over the green. In every way, the more polished display was that of Miss Wethered, this being especially noticeable in the iron shots, which were hit cleanly and more decisively.

The bogey of Bramley is 74, and the respective scores were: Miss Wethered 77; Miss Wilson 78.

In a later match Allis and Rodson, both Ryder Cup players, with a better ball score of 59—thirteen under 4's—beat G. Faulkner and M. Faulkner, father and son, who had a score of 64, by 4 and 8.

NULLAH OUTRAGE RE-TRIAL

Probably Held Next
Wednesday.

SPECIAL JURY TO BE CONVENED

Left undecided owing to the failure of the jury to agree, the retrial of Ng Lai-yuen, charged with the murder of Michael Pine, aged 8, will be re-opened on Wednesday, providing the present case at the Criminal Sessions is concluded before then.

It is probable that the Chief Justice Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor will again preside, and a special jury convened.

When interviewed yesterday the Attorney General, the Hon. Mr. R. E. Lindsell, said that there is a Special Jurors list, comprised almost entirely of head and assistant heads of firms, but consisting of any nationality, as opposed to the Common Jury which is, roughly speaking, drawn from English speaking people not in those positions.

In a case of exceptional difficulty such as the present case, said Mr. Lindsell, the Judge or the Attorney General may order the convening of a Special Jury under the Jury Ordinance and though rare in criminal cases, there have been instances here, such as the Cheng Kwok-yau and the Carvalho Yeo trials, when Special Jurors were empanelled in the first instance.

It is also learned from the Attorney General that the Crown will not be instructing outside Counsel. At the trial last week, Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, conducted the case for the Crown, while Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, of Messrs. Lyson and Hall, was for the defence.

CHIEF JUSTICE'S CRITICISM

Discrepancy in Lower Court Depositions.

A discrepancy in the certified copy of the depositions taken by the Magistrate in the lower Court was commented upon by the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor at the murder trial at Criminal Sessions, Supreme Court yesterday.

The discrepancy was discovered during the cross-examination of a witness in the course of the trial of Cheung Chak, who is charged with the murder of Wong Sze Mul by causing her to fall from the second floor of a verandah at a house in Wong Chuk Street.

When the depositions were looked up it was discovered that the original note was "I recognise the woman," and the typescript copy read "I recognised the woman."

His Lordship: I hope steps will be taken to draw the attention of the Magistrates to the very grave necessity of exercising scrupulous and personal care in this matter.

I am not accustomed, I may say, elsewhere, to find the certifying of depositions done by anybody, but a Magistrate, under his own hand, I hope, in future, this will be done, and that this Court can rely on the certified depositions implicitly. This discrepancy might have done irreparable harm to the accused person. In this case it has put the three of us in a quandary.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday.

AMAH FATAL FALL FROM CAR.

"Misadventure" Verdict
At Coroner's Inquest.

A verdict of death by misadventure was returned by the jury at a Coroner's inquest held at Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday on the death of an amah named Ah Ying, who died as a result of wounds received when she fell out of a motor-car near the Alhambra Theatre on August 14.

Mr. E. J. Porter, for whom the deceased had worked, said that he was driving to the Kowloon Ferry from Kowloon Tong with this sister, Mrs. Ray. When passing the Alhambra Theatre, the amah suddenly opened the door of the motor-car and before she could be stopped had fallen out.

Corroborative evidence was given by Mrs. Ray.

SEAMAN'S MARINE LIBRARY

Building With 4,000
Books In New York.

DEDICATED TO JOSEPH CONRAD

New York.

A richly filled marine library, dedicated to Joseph Conrad, has been opened at the Seamen's Church Institute here, 25, South street. Situated in the heart of New York's busy shipping district, overlooking the East River with its scores of piers, the library was opened by Sir Ashley Sparks, resident director of the Cunard Company, in the presence of numerous prominent writers.

Designed to serve exclusively the seafaring man, the library already contains 4,000 books on all subjects, selected around a nucleus of the sea tales of Conrad and other sailor-authors. Technical books for student mariners as well as leading works in fiction, biography, travel and science are well represented, and it is the intention to add to the collection as funds permit.

The library room has a thoroughly maritime atmosphere. In its window panes are depicted America's first clipper ships, New York's first floating church and scenes from the old waterfront.

Dominating the library and resting against the wall half way down the long room is a wood carving of Joseph Conrad, slightly more than life-size and representing a ship's figurehead. It is the work of Miss Dora Clarke, the British sculptor, and is described by Mrs. Conrad as the most lifelike representation of her husband that has been made.

Memories Of Conrad

The walls of the room bear photographs, maps and pictures of ships reminiscent of Conrad's life. One of the most interesting of these is Charles Robert Patterson's painting of the "Torrens," a passenger and freight vessel plying between London and Australia in which Conrad, as chief officer, made the last voyage of his seagoing career. On one of the maps the various ports mentioned in Conrad's books are marked, together with places he is thought to have described under fictitious names. An autographed photograph of Conrad is another point of interest.

The Seamen's Church Institute has an interesting history. Its original act of incorporation was drawn up nearly 100 years ago, when its objectives were described as the building of floating churches, the provision of chaplains for sailors and of lodging and entertainment for them.

The first floating church was moored in the East River in 1849 and was succeeded by two others before the Institute's present thirteen-storey building, at one time the most imposing building in New York, was erected. The building now provides beds for 2,000 men of the sea.

How populous of mariners is the district may be gathered from the fact that 8,000 sailors on shore leave are believed to pass through South St. every day.—Reuter.

FAMOUS RESIDENCE SOLD IN LONDON

Chesterfield House, Mayfair, the former residence of the Princess Royal and Mrs. Earl of Harrowood, has been sold, and a block of flats will be erected on the site.

AMERICA'S PRODUCTION CAPACITY

Can Double Yearly
Output

INTERESTING DISCLOSURES

Washington.

The producing plant and labour force of the United States are capable of turning out twice the production, being obtained to-day and about 20 per cent more than was obtained at the height of prosperity before the 1929 crash, according to the Brookings Institution here.

The nation could do this year in and year out without using any better methods than those in use to-day, allowing for breakdowns and other factors preventing continuous plant operation.

These are the main conclusions of the institution's study of American productive capacity, sponsored by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, of the economics division.

In presenting his report, Dr. Nourse stated that the practical productivity which the country failed to realise in 1929 was the equivalent of $3,000,000,000 of national income—"a nice bit of change," as he described it. This would have been enough to bring the incomes of all families with less than $400 in 1929 up to that level.

The report declares that still greater production could be secured if all producers could be brought up to the standard of the most efficient.—Reuter.

THE CONTROL OF RADIO

U.S. Authority Denies Newspaper Assertion

GOVERNMENT PROPAGANDA ALLEGED

Washington.

The Federal Radio Commission has called upon the president and editor of the New York "Herald Tribune," Mr. Ogden Mills Reid, to furnish "any facts or other material" in support of an assertion the newspaper made recently in a leading article that the Roosevelt administration licensing powers had made the radio the spokesman of the "New Deal."

The article stated: "The radio, controlled by the administration through its licensing powers, was made the spokesman of the New Deal and largely restricted to government propaganda." Under the Radio Act of 1927 the commission became the licensing power, the law including the following prohibition:

Nothing in this act shall be understood or construed to give the licensing authority the power of censorship over the radio communications... of any station and no regulation or condition shall be promulgated or fixed by the licensing authority which shall interfere with the right of free speech by means of radio.

The commission asserts that it has never "controlled" radio programs or "restricted" them to "government propaganda." In calling for material to support the newspaper's assertion, the commission requests the names of any persons who may have supplied.—Reuter.

CONSTANT HOT WATER!

Plentiful hot water at any time of day or night, without keeping a boiler constantly alight, without preparation, without delay—that is what a Davis "Shamrock" Geyser will give you. Simply turn on a tap, light the gas, and at once you have hot water—not only for baths and the like, but for drinking too if you so desire—and all of it thoroughly hot, however much you draw off. The cost for gas—small enough in any case—ceases the moment you have sufficient hot water and turn it out. A "Shamrock" Geyser will give you a constant and unfailing hot water service and save you time, labour and fuel. Order one to-day at the Gas Showrooms.

Japan And The Powers.

There can be no doubt at all that the Manchurian question, to revert to the old name under which it first engaged the attention of the world, is much more likely to grow in importance and as a subject of controversy rather than to simmer down. All the reports and trade statistics indicate that the restoration of order and the opening up of communications by new roads and efficient running of the Railways is leading, as it does everywhere, to a growth of trade with the outside world as well as to more successful production of food and minerals. There can be no comparison between the present regime and that of the Old and the Young Marshal. At the Great Wall there has been such an increase of trade and traffic that the usual result under present conditions has followed, in the creation of half a dozen new customs stations. There is such an anxiety in the minds of contemporary statesmen lest anybody should become rich by selling goods that somebody else wants to buy, that the possibilities of successful commerce can be detected by the imposition of new financial barriers that kill the growing business to collect a diminishing revenue.

The next step is to spend the revenue on armaments that would not have been required in an atmosphere of goodwill. A traveller in Japan is impressed with the undercurrent of suspicion that vitiate any discussion of foreign affairs. Intricate intrigues are imputed to Machiavellian policies of Powers that have on many occasions shown goodwill and given very solid support. Japan is pictured as a lone knight maintaining the cause of independence and Oriental progress against an unsympathetic and menacing Occident. It is true enough that Japan has dissipated most of the sympathy that she had accumulated by fifty years of a combination of prudence with enterprize that won general admiration. What would really be useful would be for her leaders to have a moment of vision, in which they could grasp the fact that a return to the old methods would be more to her interests than the 'sic volo sic jubeo' style which makes the other nations suspect that she is intending to take action that is not capable of defence.

This arrest of seventeen Soviet employees of the C. E. R., for example, has only raised an amused smile. Memories are not so short that they cannot recall such incidents as the arrest of the Metropolitan Vickers engineers and the seizure of the Lena Goldfields Railway by the Soviets. A few years ago the Japanese official account of the incident would have been accepted at its face value; to-day it passes merely as a move in the negotiations for the purchase of the Railway. If ever there was a question that would more naturally be settled by arbitration than the acquisition of a Railway, it would be difficult to mention it. There was for instance the purchase of the Grand Trunk by the Canadian Government, by a Board of Arbitration presided over by ex-President Taft. The price can be estimated either by cost of construction, by actual revenue, or by potential revenue. The various offers for the C. E. R., varying by hundreds of millions of yen, show the absurdity of bargaining without a basis of valuation. It is not unnatural that observers should infer that the object is to depreciate the property until it can be bought for an old song. Jay Gould would have admired; but it not a method that will advance the reputation of a first-class Power.

It may be remembered that the Japanese newspapers rejected the Lytton Report before they had had time to receive copies; and it is depressing to turn back to it and re-read it. The Report was many months belated; but that was largely due to the defection of the Commission to Shanghai. In itself it was a very sane and moderate statement of the grievances of Japan, and contained recommendations that could have been carried out with general goodwill. So far from debarring Japan from the work of development that she has carried out it would have hastened it and extended it; and Japan would have retained the advantage of being able to carry public opinion with her by explaining her policy at Geneva. There was no attempt to do that. Her case was so badly presented that until some European writer took a hand the general impression was that she had no case at all. All that was said was that suggestions could not be accepted. Under present conditions that is an attitude that cannot be adopted by even strongest Government. Under the surface of European disorganisation there is deep feeling that the League of Nations is needed as a focus of popular sentiment and opinion; it is quite realised that Japan was the cause of the League's eclipse. On a long view the probability is that Europe will tire of chaos and return to reason; and will not forget the disservice.

There will be a Dinner Dance at the Repulse Bay Hotel to-night, and a Tea Dance to-morrow at 4.30 p.m. The "Andentoni" Band will be in attendance on both occasions.

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

OLD WORCESTER CUSTOM

Lord and Lady Leverhulme recently watched a ceremony which cannot be seen elsewhere in the world.

The boys of the training ship Worcester "manning the yards" on prize day.

This is almost the last relic of a conservatism, now eradicated by Commander D. Steele, V.C., which if it "made a man" of the trainee probably made a reasonably unpleasant one.

If you missed a call to the boats, a venial sin known as "drifting," you received a smack from the "bimster" or rope's end, a weapon which hurt far more than the cane.

BIMMING THE BOYS

Indeed, the verb to "bim" and its derivatives were an integral part of life on board the Worcester.

At half-term new boys had to run the gauntlet by crawling up a mast between decks on all fours; on arrival at the other end they had to sing a song.

If the song were satisfactory it was passed with a cry of "Chance-Oh," if not with a pleased shout of "Flay-Oh."

The ceremony was known as "bimming." One can hardly conceive a sillier or more appropriate term.

HOME OF A PHILOSOPHER

The London County Council have decided to place a tablet on the house in Maitland Park-road, Hampstead, where Karl Marx lived from 1873 to the time of his death in 1883.

Marx's life at this address was more or less free of the poverty which dogged him at Dean-street, Soho, and at Grafton-street, Tottenham Court-road. In later years, however, he was much troubled by ill-health.

Nevertheless, he managed to complete here the drafts of Vols. II and III of "Capital," which were afterwards published by his friend and benefactor, Engels.

It is one of the ironies of history that while in the land of his birth all trace of his existence is being eradicated, London, the town of his adoption, is to inscribe on his plaque "Karl Marx, Socialist philosopher, lived here."

A TOWN OF TEARS

From early morning until late at night tears were streaming down the cheeks of everyone—man, woman, and child—in the town of Banja Luka, Bosnia.

A swarm of small flies which literally darkened the sky was responsible for this outbreak of weeping.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS EARTHQUAKES

A SEISMOLOGIST AND HIS APPARATUS

COMFORTING IDEA DISPELLED

London. movement of the pendulum 50 times, and so frail that they will crush at the slightest touch, swing lightly across the blackened cylinder. Ten thousand deaths register themselves as the electric bell tracing a zig-zag pattern on a slowly revolving smoked metal cylinder," writes an Evening Standard Correspondent.

A man hurried down the stairs, glanced at the cylinder, started, and began to scribble hastily in a notebook. The aluminum pointer swung gently to rest again....

Somewhere, over 6,000 miles away from this Staffordshire town, the World had shaken.

Half a country may be in ruins or in lonely mid-ocean a tidal wave may have heaved upright, and spent its force unknown. Which, the little metal pointer does not tell. It only records a minute movement—perhaps of no more than one-thousandth of an inch—which is all that this country feels of a cataclysm that may have equalled the Indian disaster of a few weeks ago.

The man who looks after this apparatus is Mr. J. J. Shaw, of West Bromwich, whose name every newspaper reader knows.

This is what he has told me of his work:

"The old idea used to be that water had percolated down to the hot regions below the crust, turned into steam, and created a sort of super boiler explosion," said Mr. Shaw, "but we don't believe that now. This is what we believe really happens:

"The mountains and the upper surface of the world are of lighter material than that which forms the majority of the globe. They are, as it were, floating on it, with a large part of their bulk below the surface just as the main part of an iceberg is below the sea. You know what happens when the upper portion of an iceberg melts or is chipped off. The whole berg rises or turns over.

The Accepted Theory
"Exactly the same thing happens on land. Rain, wind, heat and cold erode huge parts of exposed mountains. Like the icebergs, they are continually losing weight, and thus tending to rise. Continually increasing stress is set up, which finally ends with the mountain 'dragging its moorings' and rising into a position of equilibrium.

"It heaves up perhaps a fraction of an inch. But that minute movement of millions of tons of rock is enough to set a country swaying."

That is one earthquake theory—the generally accepted one. Another is that the continually cooling and contracting surface of the world is periodically forced into vast "wrinkles," and yet another that the great land surfaces or continents floating on the heavy material beneath are gradually moving. Perhaps each of these theories is partially correct.

At any rate, the well-defined "earthquake belt" follows a line of high mountains.

The "mountain icebergs" theory is also borne out by the fact that earthquakes do not occur in flat or desert countries.

The shock of a bad earthquake may appear to be local, but actually it shakes the whole world, and the world continues to shake like a struck jelly for many hours.... and, with it, the delicate apparatus in the cellar of Mr. Shaw's house.

Cumbersome Apparatus
In the cellar are two 5ft. long horizontal pendulums, set at right angles to one another, each weighted at the end with 800lb. metal blocks. A few minutes after an earthquake in, say, India, the first vibrations—in the form of a "compression" wave travelling at eight miles a second, reaches England. The foundations of the West Bromwich house "skid" perhaps one-thousandth of an inch, the ponderous pendulums swing imperceptibly one-tenth of an inch, and the rather light aluminium pointers, so "reared up" as to magnify the movement of the pendulum 50 times, and so frail that they will crush at the slightest touch, swing lightly across the blackened cylinder. Ten thousand deaths register themselves as the electric bell tracing a zig-zag pattern on a slowly revolving smoked metal cylinder," writes an Evening Standard Correspondent.

"Each pendulum moves most when the waves reach it at right angles, so that they are varying affected according to the angle of the shock, and by taking the two readings it is easy to calculate the direction from which it came.

"The distance can be worked out by the time-lag between the appearance of the different types of vibration. First comes the primary or 'compression' wave, doing eight miles a second, then the 'transverse wave,' which is a backwards-and-forwards vibration of the earth and travels at five miles a second, and, finally, a third wave, which flashes round the surface of the world with a speed of two and a half miles a second. Knowing their speeds, it is fairly simple to estimate the distance."

Incredibly Sensitive
The seismograph is incredibly sensitive. Merely by moving to the side of the room, and thus causing one wall to "bend" a few millionths of an inch inwards under my weight, I was able to reproduce a miniature earthquake on the cylinder. Mr. Shaw told me that even the expansion of the house in warm weather and the movements of the maid bringing in his morning tea are faithfully recorded.

Fourteen years ago, when 200,000 people were killed in the great Kansu earthquake in China—one of the four worst earthquakes in history—the pointer of Mr. Shaw's instruments swung seven feet across the cylinder, and half the delicate apparatus was thrown out of gear.... although no tremor was felt by the man in the street.

The comforting idea that the world is gradually becoming more stable appears to be no more than an idea. For, says Mr. Shaw, as long as the world exists so long will it continue to be wrecked with upheavals. Its five continents are in continual motion.... moving infinitely slowly towards or away from one another, perhaps only a few inches a year, to form some strange new world whose birth pangs will still be spreading death and ruin a million years hence.

STEADY TONE ON WALL STREET

Movements Confined To Minor Fractions.

WASHINGTON WATCHED

New York, To-day.

The New York market was steady yesterday with movements mostly confined to minor fractions either way. The resumption of cautious trading seems to be expected, awaiting taxable signs of business improvement and development at Washington.

S.E. Levy & Company's Report
In their market report, Messrs. S. E. Levy and Company, correspondents for Messrs. White, Weld and Company, New York state: "Stocks:—Inflationary rumours persist and some good buying was again in evidence. Business done:—750,000 shares.

"Bonds:—High grades were unchanged. Government issues were up fractionally. Second-grade were better.

"Wheat:—The technical position is improving, while grains are acting better for the time being. A trading attitude is suggested and purchases on set-backs are preferable. Thursday's sales:—22,012,000 bushels.

"Cotton:—There are brighter prospects of mill buying and some mills are resuming full-time operations on Monday. Good European and Wall Street interest was reported. Hedge offerings were negligible and higher levels are indicated.

"Rubber:—The market is quiet. The Trade absorbed a moderate amount of liquidation, while manufacturers were also fair buyers. Sellers were decidedly reluctant on declines. Business done: 307 lots.

Night Telegrams

The following telegram was received by Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company through Reuter:—

"Favourable factors before the opening of the market were:—The volume of selling sinks on any reactions. Asking prices for stocks seats do not indicate any bearish opinion and interested buyers can generally find an offer within a reasonable distance of the previous sale; however, the best offering at present is reported to be around $160,000 compared with the last sale of a seat for $95,000.

Unfavourable factors were:—Lack of conviction regarding the business outlook, the unsettlement of the wheat market and the tax drive on Foreign operators on the stock and commodity markets."

The market is steady with movements mostly confined to minor fractions either way. The resumption of cautious trading seems to be expected, awaiting signs of business improvement and developments at Washington.

Standard Brands have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share. Carloadings during the week totalled 601,000 tons, a decline of 43,000 tons from last year.

Sir Henry Fowler is Chairman of the Committee of the British Association, which has been considering the question of the reduction of noise, and has already carried out important investigations on the subject. The results will be publicly disclosed at the Association's meeting at Aberdeen next month, which will be attended by the Transport Minister.

CATHOLIC SCOUTS TO VISIT SHANGHAI

Leaving To-morrow At Daylight.

The 2nd Hong Kong Catholic Group of Boy Scouts is sailing to-morrow at daylight by the S.S. Tean on a visit to Shanghai and Foochow.

At Shanghai they will be the guests of the Salisian Institute and will pay visits to the different Scout Organizations. Arrangements will also be made for them to visit West Lake, Hangchow, the most beautiful scenery in whole China.

The party will leave Shanghai on their return on September 7. As the Scoutmaster, Mr. Luhe, is unable to go up the party will be under the care of Rev. Fr. Teruzzi, Chaplain to the Scouts.

This trip is made possible through the kindness of several supporters of the Group, and also to Rev. Bro. Amiar, Director of La Salle College, in allowing the Scouts to be a few days late for school.

Novelists' Prediction of The Future.

Melbourne, Victoria.

Mr. Dale Collins, novelist and short-story writer, who is on a visit to Australia, suggest that literature in the future will be confined to those who read for the sake of study, while those who read for amusement would revert to the ancient custom of story-telling—the fundamental difference between the ages being that the stories of the future would be told "on the air."

"I do think that the day is coming when the bad writer with a good voice will be preferred to the good writer with a bad voice," he said. "Wireless, of course, is to blame—or is it to be praised—for such a prospect."

MONETARY GOLD STOCKS

New York, To-day.

The Federal Reserve has reported that the monetary gold stocks, during the week, increased by U.S.$4,000,000 while gold certificate reserves increased by U.S.$2,000,000, indicating that the Treasury is holding the balance.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Impeding Advance Of Stock Market.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924, Received August 25, 10.14 a.m.)

New York, To-day.

Wall Street believes that the confused international monetary situation is likely to impede the advance in the stock market. Favourable market factors yesterday were that automobile exports for the first six months of 1934 amounted to $109,902,707, against $43,021,205 last year, and that the lowest current offer for a seat on the Stock Exchange was $180,000, against the previous sale price of $95,000.

An unfavourable factor was the reported discord within the National Recovery Administration, including the rumoured dispute between General Hugh Johnson and the Secretary of Labour, Miss Frances Perkins.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

TYTAM HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

In the fight which followed the car started to run backwards and the driver fell into the road. He escaped in the direction of Tytam and raised the alarm. Later the man, who had been in the back seat, was arrested and taken to Stanley. Returning to the scene of the fight the car was found to be missing.

No news has since been heard of the missing vehicle.

To-day's Short Story.

Presented To Jonathan Skeppitt

By Norah Cotterill.

"It's a power o' money and a grand umbrella," mumbled Jonathan Skeppitt a little dazedly when, to an accompaniment of handclapping and the subdued stamping of nailed boots, the vicar made the presentation.

There was a brown leather wallet, stamped with J. S. in gold lettering, containing five crisp one pound notes, and there was a silk covered umbrella with a crook handle of cherrywood. Around its sturdy neck a band of silver bore the inscription which the vicar had just read out impressively:

"Presented to Jonathan Skeppitt in grateful recognition of fifty-six years of faithful service given to Gatterling Church Choir."

"Something for a rainy day," the vicar announced benignly as he placed the wallet and the umbrella into Jonathan's gnarled old hands.

But Jonathan missed the double meaning of the vicar's carefully thought out "bon mot" and stared with something like reverence at the rolled umbrella with its gleaming silken cover.

"Nay, I reckon it's too good for rain," he said doubtfully. "I shall use the old 'un for rain and keep this for Sundays and suchlike." He stared round at the ring of faces uncertainly.

"I'm sorry to leave t'choir," he went on. "It's all along of rheumatics setting me fast so often that I can't get to practice like used to. But I'll be here Sundays to hear how they go on, and the umbrella will be a grand help to be walking from Hay-lane." He sat down, his keen old eyes suddenly dim, the gaping faces around him receding into a watery blur as the difficult tears of old age pursued a meandering course down his furrowed cheeks.

"It's a grand umbrella," he repeated, "but I'm sorry to leave t'choir."

They crowded round him, slapping his bowed shoulders, staring enviously at the brown wallet that contained what seemed like a small fortune. The umbrella was grand, but it was grander still to be the possessor of five pounds.

"You'll have to mind burglars, Jonathan," Tom Dobbie told him. "All that money's a rare temptation. It'd be best in the savings bank, and there'd be less chance of you being murdered in your bed for it."

MONDAY'S STORY

Monday's story will be "Light And Shade," by Alan Jenkins.

Jonathan stared at the wallet with some apprehension and hastily stuffed it into the inside pocket of his ancient frock coat. "You're right, Tom Dobbie," he nodded. "It's a power o' money, and there's them as would murder you as soon as look at you for it. I'll take it and put it in the savings bank to-morrow."

The next morning found Jonathan trudging the half-mile from his cottage into Gatterling. He had put on his frock coat to emphasise the importance of the occasion and was carrying the umbrella stiffly and with a care that suggested it would be sacrilege to let its ferrule touch the ground.

It was rather warm weather, the bank was still some distance ahead, the Jug and Glass in had just opened its doors for the dinner hour session, and Jonathan knew that Tom Dobbie and one or two more would be in there sitting over ale.

He was tired and thirsty and his arm was stiff from holding the umbrella at a reverent arm's-length. He would be safe among friends and they would no doubt treat him with the gratifying deference that should be accorded to a man of wealth.

Tom Dobbie was in. Job Simpson, Will Bredon and several others he knew well were there too—and a stranger; a young man in a striped suit who was laughing and talking pleasantly with the rest. He seemed a harmless-looking young fellow, but Jonathan frowned, took a firmer grip on the umbrella, and patted the part of his frock coat that lay over the wallet in the inside pocket.

"Morning, Jonathan," Tom Dobbie greeted him. "We were just talking about you, telling this young gentleman what a do we had last night presenting you with a grand wallet and a silk umbrella on account of you singing in t'choir, man and boy, for 56 year. He says he'd like to put it in the papers and mebbe have a photo of you and Gatterling Church."

"I think it is a marvellous record, Mr. Skeppitt," the young man broke in. "I should like to get full details. It would make a good story, that."

"Aye," agreed Jonathan, relaxing slightly in the sun of the young man's praise. "At one time there wasn't even a choir supper."

He carefully withdrew the wallet from his pocket and put it on the table, cautiously keeping a large splayed thumb on one corner of it.

"That's the wallet they give me with five pounds in it. I'm on me way to the savings bank now," he said importantly. "You'll see the gold lettering on it; J. S. for Jonathan Skeppitt."

"Very nice," murmured the young man, "but no more than you deserve, Mr. Skeppitt."

"Jonathan" put back the wallet and placed the umbrella on the table, holding on firmly to the ferrule while pushing the handle towards the young man.

"That's the umbrella, silk cover, and you'll perhaps note the inscription on that there silver band for the papers," he continued with ponderous pride.

FROZEN DESSERT IS BEST ENDING TO A HOT DAY

LEMON ICE, MINT SHERBET FOR KEEPING COOL NOW

Nothing is better on a hot day than a frozen fruit dessert, sherbet, ice or muscovite. An ice cream rich with cream, eggs, nuts and chocolate furnishes lots of food value but also heat-producing calories. So while it may be cold to the taste, it has the reverse effect on the body.

Remember in making ices that sugar is a quick energiser and adds fuel value to a meal. Use enough to make the ice palatable, but don't over-sweeten and thus add extra heat.

Fruit pulp and sugar are used to make a muscovite and fruit juice and sugar syrup to make an ice. Sherbet or sorbet adds stiffly beaten whites of eggs to a water ice foundation.

Muscovite Of Watermelon

Four cups shredded watermelon, 2 cups powdered sugar, 4 tablespoons non-alcoholic sherry.

Break watermelon with a fork, removing seeds. Combine with sugar and sherry and turn into freezer. Pack in four parts ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand two hours or longer. Serve in chilled sherbet glasses.

Lemon Ice

This can be used as the foundation for several inviting desserts and beverages.

Four cups water, 2 cups sugar, 4 lemons, 1 large orange or 2 small ones, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin.

Grate rinds of orange and lemon and add to sugar and water. Bring to the boiling point and boil eight minutes. Add gelatin which has been softened in 4 tablespoons cold water for five minutes. Stir until gelatin is dissolved, strain and cool. Squeeze juice from lemons and orange and strain. When syrup is cold, add strained juice and turn into freezer. Freeze as usual.

To make tutti-frutti ice, add 1 cup diced peaches or apricots and 1 cup red raspberries when lemon ice is half frozen.

For lemon granita, add 1 cup sweet cider and 1 cup crushed ice and serve in tall glasses. Lady fingers or sponge cup cakes are good to serve with the granita.

Lemon frappe is served in punch glasses. Make a hole in the centre of each serving and fill with 2 or 3 tablespoons grape juice.

Mint Sherbet

Four lemons, 2 oranges, 1 large bunch mint, 2 cups water, 1 cup sugar, white of 1 egg, few grains salt, green vegetable colouring.

Cut mint finely and put into a large bowl. Make a syrup of sugar and water and pour over mint. Cover closely and let stand 1 hour. Strain and add juice from lemons and oranges. Add colouring if wanted and turn into freezer. When half frozen fold in white of egg beaten until stiff with a few grains of salt. Finish freezing and serve with a garnish of slightly sweetened whipped cream.

CUCUMBER DRESSING ADDS ZEST

Useful Salad Hint

Cucumber dressing adds zest to cold fish or meat salads. Simply whip cold cream (don't get it too stiff), put in a little vinegar, salt, pepper and paprika. Leave it in the ice box until ready to serve and then add a cupful of thinly sliced cucumber.

FRUIT FRAPPE

1/2 cup orange juice, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1/4 cup powdered sugar, 1 cup water.

Mix fruit juices, and then add sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add water. Turn into refrigerator, freezing tray and freeze 2 to 3 hours. Fill 1 pint tray. Milk may be used instead of water.

Cool Gelatin Salads Add Interesting Note To Menu

Best Luncheon Salad

1 package lemon gelatin, 1 pint warm water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon scraped onion, 1 1/2 cups (4 small) beets, cooked and diced, 1 1/2 cups cabbage, finely shredded, 1/4 cup green pepper, diced.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar, salt and onion. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in vegetables. Turn into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmould on crisp lettuce. Garnish with yonaisse.

Crisp Summer Salad

1 package lemon gelatin, 1 pint warm water, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup cucumber, diced, 1 cup red radishes, thinly sliced, 1 cup tender young onion, thinly sliced.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in vegetables. Turn into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmould on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise.

Fresh Asparagus Salad

1 package lemon gelatin, 1 cup warm water, 1/4 cup asparagus stock or water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups asparagus, cooked and sliced.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in vegetables. Turn into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmould on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise.

Time changes all things—for verification of this adage, consider the tomato. Time was when this fruit—oh, regardless of common classification as a vegetable, tomatoes are the fruit of the vine—was regarded as poison. Its original name was love apple, apparently a most insidious title. Later the tomato became a luxury—viewed with distrust by many.

Now it enters into more healthful dishes than possibly any single food served on American tables. As a beverage containing valuable minerals and vitamins, tomato juice has no superior.

Among the minerals in tomato juice are phosphorus, calcium and iron. Vitamins A, B and C are present in abundance, particularly the last named. Small wonder then that baby specialists recommend tomato juice for children from the tender age of 3 months on to maturity.

It is most gratifying to know that tomatoes, whether fresh or canned, retain their healthful properties to the fullest extent. The facilities for modern canning promote this happy state of affairs.

Only tomatoes that have passed rigid tests as to their size and quality are used for canning purposes, the entire process being governed with scientific exactitude. Fresh tomatoes are perfect just now—get them in abundance, in salads or combined with cooked foods. This same goodness can also be obtained in canned tomatoes and canned tomato juice.

OMELETTE A DISH FOR ANY MEAL

Gives Scope For Wide Variety

MUST BE SERVED IMMEDIATELY

The great all-meal dish, that's the omelette. For breakfast, luncheon, dinner and mid-night supper, there's always old faithful.

You must watch one thing, though. It ought to be served immediately. It loses its golden fluffiness quickly if it stands. Turn it quickly onto a hot, buttered platter and eat at once.

Plain Omelette

Allow one egg for each person to be served and an extra egg for the pan. For each egg use 1 tablespoon hot water. Separate yolks and whites of eggs. Season yolks with salt and pepper and beat well, gradually beating in water. Beat whites until stiff and fold the yolks into the whites. Pour into a hot, well-buttered omelette pan or a heavy frying pan and cook slowly until the underside is lightly browned. Then put the pan in a slow oven, 350 degrees F. and bake until the omelette is firm to the touch.

To fold make a cut with a spatula at right angles to the handle of the pan and about two-thirds down from the handle. Be sure not to cut more than half-way through the mixture. Tip the pan, slide spatula under omelette and fold it over as you slide it onto the hot platter.

Other Varieties To make jelly omelette, spread cooked omelette with jelly just before folding. Jam, preserves or jelly can be used.

Ham Omelette: Sprinkle with a thick layer of chopped cooked ham, mixed with a little minced parsley if you like, before folding. I like to pour a cup of medium white sauce around ham omelette when ready to serve.

Chicken Omelette: Before folding omelette, cover with a thick layer of diced cooked chicken in a rich cream sauce. This is splendid for a party breakfast or "brunch" so satisfactory for summer entertaining. Cooked sweetbreads can be substituted for the chicken or you can use fish—tuna, crabmeat, lobster or salmon.

Cheese Omelette: Sprinkle a thick layer of grated cheese over the top before folding and serve surrounded by a border of sautéed tomato slices. This is inviting for dinner when the day has been hot.

If you start varying omelettes you will go on almost indefinitely because all the vegetables can be used, mushrooms are delicious and the meats are savoury and numerous.

FRUIT COCKTAIL CONTAINERS

Ice Shells Add New Note When Serving

Ice shells for serving fruit cocktails are something new and different. These can be made either in glass custard cups or in soufflé cups. Fill the cups with water. A little food colouring can be used if desired.

Place a thickness of waxed paper in the freezing tray and then place the cups on the paper. This will produce more uniform freezing. Allow the water to freeze approximately 1/4 inch all around.

Remove the cups and pour out the water from the centre. Return to freezing tray for a short time. Then remove the ice shells from the containers and place them in the glass chill tray beneath the freezer.

A dozen or more of these shells can be frozen and stored for future use. When serving, place the shell on a doily and arrange fruit as desired. Serve immediately (a piece of paper will prevent these shells from freezing on the chill tray, which would make them difficult to remove.)

Hints On Summer Diets

A good thing to do about the diet in hot weather is to eat what most appeals to you. And don't eat when you don't feel like it. Remember, though, to intersperse a few hot dishes with the cold ones, whether you think you want them much or not. You'll really be surprised how good an occasional substantial hot meal will taste if you've subsisted for several days on knickknacks.

AGED WOMAN FIGHTS ARMED THIEF

Battles For 20 Minutes
Though Wounded.

STRUCK AT WITH KNIFE

Kumbakonam (South India).
How a woman of 75, now a grandmother and very likely a great grandma in a few weeks, grappled with an armed intruder and routed him, was related by herself to a correspondent of the Madras Mail.

Being an orthodox Hindu widow, she however declined to be photographed.

"Hearing a rumbling sound," she said, "I woke my grand-daughter-in-law, and taking a hurricane lamp, opened the door. As I did so I saw a man attempting to scale the courtyard wall, which is about 8 feet high.

"Previous cases of theft flashed to my memory, and at sight of the intruder I got angry.

"In a moment I seized his legs, pulled him down to the ground, and, seizing him, raised an alarm.

"He managed to escape from my grasp and ran towards the house, but the door was closed against him by my grand-daughter-in-law, who, I might tell you, is expecting to become a mother, and so could not help me.

"I followed him and crying: 'Thief, thief,' gripped his hands.

"My Level Best"

"For nearly 20 minutes I fought him, and if assistance had come I would have bound that fellow to the parapet wall of the well in the compound. But single-handed it was impossible for an old woman like me to put up a successful fight with a desperado of 35 or 40. Still, I tried my level best.

"At one time he took out an aruval (a knife used for cutting plantains) and struck me on the wrist, but luckily the weapon fell from his grasp.

"He then pulled out an instrument something like a pen-knife, and struck out at me. I put my arm and the knife entered the palm of my hand. Blood flowed from the wound and he slipped from my grasp. I chased him again, with the hurricane lamp in my left hand, but he jumped over a fence and escaped.—Reuter.

EASTMAN TO LEAD KOWLOON F.C.

"Thanks are due to the Railway authorities for the sympathetic ear and assistance given to our many requests throughout the season."

Officers Elected

Mr. H. F. London was elected Hon. Secretary, in the place of Mr. W. C. K. Mackie, who is retiring. Mr. J. P. White, was elected Hon. Treasurer; Mr. B. M. Whitman, Bar Convener; Mr. Eastman, Captain, and Mr. A. S. Bliss, vice-captain.

The Committee elected for the coming season were: Messrs. McKelvie, Mackie, Randle, C. M. Hall, Coleman and Hast, while the Balloting Committee is comprised of Messrs. Luck, Fantham and Gurevitch.

An amendment to rule 19 was carried on the vote of Mr. Stokes, seconded by Mr. Hast, that the rule shall read:

"All members shall pay an Entrance fee of $15.00 and an Annual subscription of $10.00. The Annual subscription shall fall due on July 1st in each year and any member who has not paid his subscription within one month of that date will be deemed to be in arrears, and if still outstanding at the end of nine months shall cease to be considered a member."

At the close of the meeting Major Manners proposed a vote of thanks to the Chairman, and urged that the members should take to heart the remarks regarding subscriptions towards the necessary repairs to the Club House.

He also alluded to the possible sharing of the ground with the Police Football Club, negotiations regarding which are now in progress.

"But we have found it, Jonathan!" Tom Dobbie shouted in triumph. "It was in a bush in Catterham Spinney. Chap must have got frightened and chucked it away just as he took it. Look, Jonathan, here's the wallet and the notes an' all."

He thrust the wallet under Jonathan's nose, opening it to show him it was not empty. Jonathan took it and with trembling, trembling fingers slowly counted five crisp notes.

He opened his mouth to speak; then closed it again with rap-like firmness. "It was not for him to question the working of miracles! It was not for Tom Dobbie or any body to know that he had taken the original notes out of the wallet last night's wallet, being a thing any rogue might snatch, and that they were even now wrapped up in the stolen folds and protecting ribs of the grand umbrella!"

TRUTH ABOUT GRAN CHACO WARS

Australian Adventurers
In S. American Dispute

FINANCED BY FOREIGN SYNDICATES

Brisbane, Queensland.

Information that a number of Australians are taking part in the Bolivian-Paraguay war in South America is contained in a private letter to a resident of Thursday Island. The writer, Frank Jones, left Thursday Island in a cutter, accompanied by David Simbree, 15 months ago. They were wrecked off the coast of New Guinea, and it was feared that they had been murdered by headhunters. In his letter, Jones stated that after the wreck they tramped for several days through the bush, and came upon a village. They made the natives carry the gear they had saved to Merauke, 50 miles away. Eventually they returned to England and, about six months, ago went to South America, where they joined the Bolivian Army. They both obtained commissions in machine-gun corps.

The letter stated that both armies were using ultramodern arms in the fight over the Gran Chaco, which contains immense oil resources. Both countries were being financed by foreign syndicates, who hoped to obtain concessions from the victors when the war was over. The war was being fought in dense jungles and swamps. The climate was very unhealthy, and more Indian troops were dying of fever and dysentery than of wounds. Most of the Bolivian troops came from the high altitudes of the Andes, and were dying in hundreds. The hospitals had practically no anesthetics, and the wounded chewed coca (taken from a Bolivian shrub and used as a stimulant) while the surgeons worked.

"A man named Palmer, of Cairns, (Queensland), is captain of an infantry brigade in the Bolivian Army," the letter continues. "Paraguay has a regiment called Smith's Light Horse, recruited from descendants of Australians who settled in Paraguay about 50 years ago. Colonel Freddie Smith, of Victoria, is in charge of them. We machine gunners had a skirmish with them about a month ago, but fortunately they were not able to break through.—Reuter.

BUT THE CUPBOARD WAS NOT BARE

Robber Surprised By
Wise Constable

Biella, Italy.

A thief who entered a house here was astonished when he opened a cupboard to find a man inside.

The man was a policeman, who proceeded to arrest him.

Giuseppe Gamba, a citizen of Biella, had noticed that a key of the cupboard in which he kept his valuables had disappeared.

Then things began to disappear out of the cupboard, generally sums of money.

Signor Gamba dismissed five servants in succession on suspicion, but the thefts continued.

Then it was noticed that the thefts always took place on Sunday days. So the police put a constable into the cupboard on a Sunday evening.

HEAT AGGRAVATES TEMPER

Kansas.
The recent scorching weather which seared the Kansas wheat crop also had a highly disturbing effect on the state's social life, according to Jim Shockley, night police sergeant here.

"All the police department gets done this weather is quelling family rows," he said. "The hot weather has the women going. As long as they win the fight you don't hear anything from them, but let the man get a little advantage and the woman wants to call out the war department."

The thief was found to be a friend of Signor Gamba, who had stolen the key while he was staying with him as a guest. Altogether he confessed to have taken about $170.—Reuter.
